

Social Impact Fellows

Helping students learn how to make a difference

The Social Impact Fellows program encourages a systems-level view of how business functions work together to drive meaningful change—helping graduate students understand the full potential of business to create positive impact in the areas of Climate, Health, and Shared Prosperity.

Companies sponsor individual students who use defined criteria to complete coursework, participate in executive mentorship, engage in experiential learning activities, learn how to use AI for social good, and build the knowledge, confidence and networks needed for leadership across diverse business functions.

Sponsors Will Receive:

- Access to Top Talent
Connect with high-potential graduate students focused on purpose-driven businesses
- Engage Your Employees
Offer alumni or employees meaningful roles as mentors or guest speakers
- Gain Insightful Deliverables
Receive student-generated research or reflections aligned with your impact goals
- Boost Your Brand
Get visibility through Rutgers materials, social media, and event programming
- Build Academic Partnership
Strengthen ties with Rutgers Business School and RICSI
- Demonstrate Commitment to Equity
Support a program that advances real-world solutions in equity and sustainability
- Leveraging Storytelling Content
Access co-branded student spotlights and content for internal or external use

Experiential Learning Project

- During the Spring semester (January – May 2027), the Social Impact Fellows will participate in an Experiential Learning Project.
- The topic/focus of this project is of your choosing and can be a business analysis, research for the implementation of a new initiative, etc. You will work together with RICSI and the Social Impact Fellow to develop the project.
- The project will culminate in a final presentation to you, RICSI leadership, and relevant members of the Rutgers community.

*The time the Fellow dedicates to this project is to determined between you and them.

$5,000 investment per Social Impact Fellow

Supported by Management & Global Business (MGB)

📞 For more information, contact us at ricsi.director@business.rutgers.edu