

CONSULTANTS FOR Impact

About Us

Consultants for Impact is reimagining how top-tier business consulting talent drives social change.

We equip strategy consultants with the tools, networks, and mindset to transition into mission-driven roles and help impact organizations access the talent they desperately need to scale solutions to the world's most pressing problems.

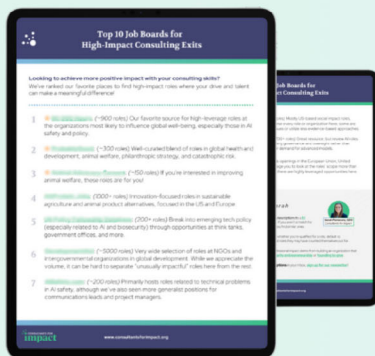

Through career advising, curated programming, and deep partnerships, we're transforming how the impact sector sources and deploys strategic talent.

Meet Sarah

Sarah Pomeranz, Consultants for Impact's CEO, is an award-winning trailblazer in social innovation and strategic transformation. From developing solar water sterilization tech in India to leading groundbreaking DEI work with the World Economic Forum, her work spans global health, emerging tech policy, and economic development.

At Consultants for Impact, she has scaled the team, built an international movement across eight top consulting firms, and personally coached over 500 consultants, setting a new standard for impact leadership in professional services.

Turning Talent into Social Impact

Consultants for Impact mobilizes exceptional strategic talent to solve humanity's greatest challenges. With 1500 members across 40 countries, we're redirecting analytical excellence from focusing on corporate profits to addressing critical global priorities.

In 2024 alone, we provided personalized career advice to 385 consultants and facilitated over 60 high-impact career transitions, connecting partner-level strategists with organizations addressing challenges ranging from malaria prevention to AI safety. We've become a premier talent pipeline for MIT, RAND, the Gates Foundation, and 70 other impact-driven institutions.

We're just getting started: By 2025, we'll reach 3,000 consultants with our programming, and by 2027, we'll enable over 150 annual career transitions, contributing to a world free of poverty, disease, and immense suffering.

"When I began engaging with Consultants for Impact, I lacked the confidence and skills to leave my job in consulting. Learning from others who shared generously gave me the confidence and understanding of various opportunities, enabling me to apply to organizations and reach out to new people."

—Ruwa Mahdi, former consultant and current Participation Officer at Wellcome Trust
